Gen. Bradley Says U. S. Is Not Ready For a "Showdown" With Russia at the Present Time

Washington, May 15—(AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley testified today the United States is not ready for a "showdown" with Russia and should not risk world conflict by adopting Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean war proposals.

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, told senators he knows some critics are "impatient" with the administration's plan to fight a limited war in Korea and are calling for a "showdown" with the Soviet Union. Bradley then added:

"From a purely military viewpoint, this is not desirable. We are not in the best military position to seek a showdown, even if it were the nation's desire to forfeit the chances for peace by precipitating a total war."

Plea For American Unity Is Made By Director Wilson

Washington, May 15—(AP)—Pleading for American unity, mobilization director Charles E. Wilson today decried the "foolishness like what's been going on up on Capitol Hill, where some of our leading generals are on the pen."

Wilson told the 1951 industry-armed forces conference that American squabbling over military and foreign policy "must certainly be wonderful music to the ears of the Russians."

He spoke of the possibility that publication of documents revealed in congressional hearings might help the Communist enemy in decoding secret messages.

The mobilization chief said he has reached the conclusion that the nation's mobilization "isn't going to be as long a job as I had thought—if we have some unity in this country."

Attainment of unity, he said, might mean "cutting out some of the foolishness like what's going on up on Capitol Hill."

Cheering Crowds Hail Erie Special

Elmira, N. Y., May 15—(AP)—A special train with modern and antiquated equipment pulled out of here today to complete a journey re-enacting the inaugural run of the first through train to link the Atlantic seaboard and the Great Lakes.

The Erie Railroad train began yesterday to retrace the route followed by its predecessor 100 years ago.

A modern diesel-electric locomotive pulled the centennial train that carried—mounted for display on flat cars—a locomotive of the 1851 era, its baggage car and coach.

Cheering crowds hailed its westward progress through southern New York villages and cities. A civil banquet was held when an overnight stop was made.

Today's schedule called for stops at Corning, Hornell, Wellsville, Olean and Salamanca before the train reaches Dunkirk, western terminus of the original line. Dunkirk now is a branch-line point, by-passed by the main line that runs west to Chicago.

Lanky, Lantern-Jawed Soldier Latest Star Witness Before Senate Committee

Washington, May 15—(AP)—The lanky, lantern-jawed soldier who steps into the senate spotlight today looks like he wouldn't say boo to a goose.

He would, though, if he thought it was necessary. Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley is a mild-mannered man. As any number of people have pointed out, he looks like a school teacher. His forehead is wide, his voice is unemphatic, he even wears tortoise-shell glasses. He doesn't smoke. He's never been known (this is a general we're talking about, mind you) to cuss out a subordinate.

But the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees will find that the milquetoast manner is deceptive when they quiz plain Omar Bradley about the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Bradley knows what he knows and says what he thinks, if the occasion seems to call for it. This one does.

Two other five-star generals have taken the witness stand before Bradley: MacArthur himself, military hero, vivid of personality, storm center of a boiling controversy; and Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall, impressive of manner, a figure of military prestige.

Now comes Bradley, the schoolmaster's son, the "G-I's general," the man who went through the greatest war in history without so much as owning a Sam Browne belt or a dress cap.

Bradley has small liking for the spotlight. He has little stomach for appearances before senators.

Bradley is chairman of the joint chiefs. The senators can be expected to pry loose a good deal of his advice before they get through.

SETS AIR RECORDS—Max Conrad, Minneapolis flying father of nine children yawns sleepily after landing his Piper Pacer at LaGuardia field, New York, 23 hours and four minutes after taking off from Los Angeles, Calif., on a non-stop flight. He beat both distance and speed records for light planes.

Flying Father Has Date With Tin Pan Alley After Flight From Coast to Coast

New York, May 15—(AP)—Max Conrad, the flying father, had a date with Tin Pan Alley today.

The 47-year-old commercial pilot flew in from Los Angeles yesterday in a tiny Piper Pacer monoplane to set an unofficial record, or possibly two, for light planes.

Now he wants to set some sort of an unofficial selling record for part-time songwriters.

He said he brought four new songs with him and hoped to peddle them all in a day or so. Then he plans to return to his wife and nine children in Mirror Lake, Minn., outside Minneapolis. A tenth youngster is on the way.

One of his songs was composed on a solo flight to Rome, Italy, last year, Conrad said. He added that he used a harmonica to write this love song, probably the only one on the market written on a trans-Atlantic hop.

Conrad said he practiced the tunes on his harmonica when he was not concerned with bad weather on his record transcontinental flight.

He landed here at La Guardia field yesterday afternoon 23 hours and four minutes after taking off from Los Angeles.

John M. Jones made the trip in 30 hours and 47 minutes in 1938 to set the official record.

Conrad's flight was not officially timed by the National Aeronautics Association, which keeps tab of records.

There also was the possibility that Conrad unofficially broke the non-stop distance record for light planes, but there were arguments that he did this by carrying a load of gasoline over the "light-weight" limit.

NEW YORK-OIL CITY SLEEPER IS REMOVED

Titusville, May 15—The New York-Oil City sleeper car will be removed from Pennsylvania Railroad passenger trains 980 and 981 between Oil City and Corry, effective Sunday, May 27, officials of the railroad announced yesterday.

Beginning on that date, the New York sleeper will have its terminus at Erie instead of Oil City. In place of the Pullman between Oil City and Corry, the Pennsylvania will assign standard air-conditioned coach to trains Nos. 980 and 981. The connection with the trains to and from eastern points at Corry will remain as before. Passengers from Oil City and Titusville to New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Harrisburg will only have to step across the platform in Corry to board the sleeping cars.

Railroad officials pointed out that the trains between Oil City and Corry are being operated at an annual loss of about $80,000. Of this deficit $29,000 was paid for a yard switching crew and mechanical forces in Corry for the express purpose of switching the New York-Oil City sleeping car to and from trains 589 and 581.

Students Finish Canoe Trip to Pittsburgh

Four Pitt students, wearing Indian garb, who left Warren early Friday morning for a canoe trip down the Allegheny river, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon. Their arrival in the Steel City marked the opening of the University of Pittsburgh's annual Spring Festival, which this year is built around the theme, "Pitt Goes West."

Those who made the 195-mile river trip in two canoes were James Rock and Lewis McCullough, both of North Warren, and two other Pitt students, William Leach and Howard Greenberger.

Final Death Toll From Collision at Sea Undetermined

Norfolk, Va., May 15—(AP)—The Navy today postponed attempts to enter four compartments of the fire-ravaged seaplane tender Valcour.

It revised downward the number of known dead in yesterday's collision between the vessel and a collier. Atlantic fleet headquarters announced today the following official figures: 2 known dead, 7 missing and presumed dead, and 19 hospitalized.

Norfolk, Va., May 15—(AP)—Salvage workers pried grimly into four compartments today which held the key to the final death toll aboard a fire-ravaged Navy seaplane tender on which 11 men died yesterday after a collision with a coal collier.

The Navy refused to predict whether any of the 25 men unaccounted for from the tender USS Valcour's crew of 215 officers and men might be in the compartments—one of them a berthing space.

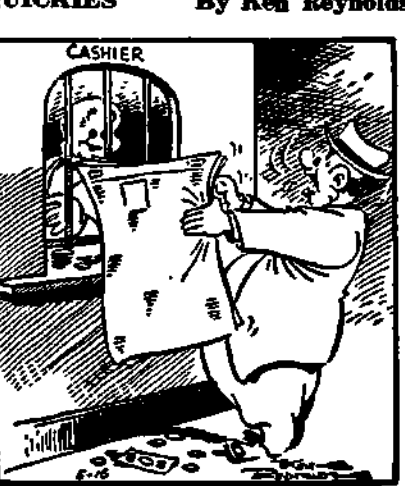

It is probable, the Navy said, that some of the men were on leave when the ship—loaded with 70,000 gallons of high-octane gas—was rammed amidships while veering out of control with a jammed rudder.

The Navy was expected today to disclose the identity of the 11 men killed and 16 injured—one critically and three seriously—when the Valcour collided with the collier Thomas Tracy some five miles off Cape Henry.

Naval spokesmen said salvage crews were unable to enter the four compartments aboard the Valcour last night because of gasoline fumes. They also could not

RUMORS OF PEACE TALKS UNCONFIRMED

Washington, May 15—(AP)—Unconfirmed talk of possible enemy peace feelers in Korea among lawmakers today as Gen. Omar N. Bradley carried on the administration's military reply to Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Before Bradley's scheduled appearance in the senate inquiry into MacArthur's ouster, Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.) told a reporter the feeling is growing among senators that the Red Chinese may give some early sign of willingness to negotiate.

Secretary of Defense Marshall, who completed yesterday about 28 hours of testimony spread over seven days, declined to discuss peace probabilities. But other senators who heard his testimony have indicated they think Marshall must have some reason for what they regard as relative optimism on his part.

Marshall's marathon testimony apparently left members of the senate armed services and foreign relations committees little changed in their attitude toward the conflicting programs of President Truman and MacArthur for the Far East.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) told a reporter he thinks "the administration's contentions still remain to be proved."

Sparkman said he thinks Marshall made it clear there isn't too wide an area of differences between MacArthur and the administration, but that the difference is vital.

"MacArthur is proceeding on the theory that Red China is a government in its own right and can make its own decisions," the Alabama senator said. "General Marshall and the administration leadership believe that what Red China does is dictated by the Kremlin."

On the question of possible peace feelers, Sparkman made it clear he has no knowledge of any specific move.

But he said some members of the two committees are so impressed with Marshall's recital of American success in decimating the Communist troops that they believe the Reds will be forced to seek an early truce.

Man Sentenced to Die in Chair Is Ordered Set Free

Philadelphia, May 15—(AP)—David Almeida, convicted of slaying a policeman and sentenced to die in Pennsylvania's electric chair, was ordered freed today by the U. S. district court.

Judge George A. Welsh issued a writ of habeas corpus forbidding the state to electrocute Almeida for the slaying of Patrolman Cecil Ingling. Welsh ruled that Almeida's trial and conviction was "null and void."

The writ, if it is sustained by higher federal courts—and the state is almost certain to appeal—leaves the commonwealth with a choice of letting Almeida go free or bringing him to trial again.

Welsh ruled that the state deliberately suppressed evidence that Ingling was killed by a shot fired by another policeman during an attempt to halt a holdup.

The judge declared that if this evidence had been presented to the jury Almeida might still have been convicted of murder but the Defense Department Selects Alternate Headquarters Site Outside Washington

Washington, May 15—(AP)—The Defense Department has selected locations outside Washington where its most essential functions could be carried on in the event of an enemy attack on the capital.

Reporting this last night, Secretary of Defense Marshall said the planning is similar to that being carried out "in many other places in the United States."

It represents, he said, "precautionary measures desirable in view of the continued tension in the world situation."

Marshall said all employees of the Defense Department have received, or will shortly, notice of the role they are to perform in the event of an attack.

Senate Rejection of Income Tax Bill Forces Leaders To Seek Other Fund-Raising Plan

BULLETIN

Harrisburg, May 15—(AP)—A fear that the state's labor, welfare and education programs would have to be "greatly altered" was voiced today in the wake of senate rejection of Governor John S. Fine's income tax bill. Sen. T. Newell Wood (R-Luzerne) chairman of the senate finance committee told reporters after a two-hour conference of assembly leaders with the governor that no decision was reached as to future moves on the administration's $163,000,000 tax program.

Harrisburg, May 15—(AP)—Senate rejection of the income tax bill forced administration leaders to pursue new avenues of taxation to finance a projected $1,220,000,000 budget for the next two years.

The choice apparently narrows down to (1) a sales tax, or (2) increasing existing taxes while drastically cutting state expenditures.

Gov. John S. Fine, in espousing the fallen one-half of one per cent personal income levy, has been cool to both ideas.

The sales tax, he contends, is an impost that would hit low-income groups hardest.

Fine also claims present taxes are at a point where further increases would bring in diminishing returns. And state expenses, he adds, are pruned down to a bare minimum.

The governor, shortly after starting the day's work, went into conference with a group of Republican assembly leaders to chart the administration's tax course.

Missing from the conference, however, was Sen. John M. Walker, Republican floor leader, who lined up against the income tax bill last night at the GOP senate conference, which rejected it.

"I wasn't invited," Walker told reporters, adding: "There's nothing personal involved in this. There's wide area of disagreement between myself and the governor. There is none of us, who won't sit down and listen to some good, constructive legislative suggestions."

At the same time, Walker said he had no intention of quitting his post as GOP floor leader.

Another possible source of revenue is renewal of the present soft drink tax which produces $30,000,000 in two years. But Fine promised to drop that levy at the end of the present biennium and made no provision in the state budget for its continuance.

The tax, first enacted in 1947 and renewed in 1949, imposes a levy of one cent on each 12 ounces of bottled soft drinks and one cent on each ounce of syrup used in fountain drinks.

The tax was stoutly opposed both in 1947 and 1949 by the Democratic minority and soft drink manufacturers and bottlers. But the commonwealth's new two-year fiscal period starts on June 1 and the legislature must do something about providing revenue even though the lawmakers may differ with the governor on how it should be done.

The 30-member GOP majority split sharply on the question of backing the bill, the backbone of Gov. Fine's $163,000,000 tax program to balance a $1,220,000,000 budget for the next two years. Seventeen senators voted at a closed caucus to go along with the

Well Known Club And Church Leader Found Dead Today

Mrs. Ruth Tillotson Wade, 49, wife of Judge Allison D. Wade, president judge of Warren and Forest counties, died suddenly at the family home, 215 Fourth avenue, some time between 1:30 and 4:30 o'clock this morning.

For the past six years, the body of Mrs. Wade was found by her husband about 4:30 o'clock lying on the floor at the foot of the stairs leading from the first to the second floor. Physicians who were summoned informed Coroner Ed Lowrey that the demise probably occurred an hour or two before.

Mrs. Wade, daughter of Mrs. Florence Tillotson, 305 Fourth avenue, this city, was born in Corry, October 19, 1901. After attending the public schools in that city, she entered University of Pittsburgh, later enrolling for graduate work at New York University. She taught in Warren schools for a number of years and at the time of her marriage to Judge Wade 12 years ago was head of the commercial department in the high school.

Since coming to Warren, Mrs. Wade had been active in club and church circles. She was a faithful member of Trinity Memorial Episcopal church, president of the Women's Auxiliary, member of the Service League, a teacher of one of the Sunday school classes and was also an instructor for one of the high school religious education classes.

She was vice president of the Woman's Club, active in the Association of College Women; chairman of the program committee of Warren County Council of Republican Women; the Philomel Club; Shakespeare Club; (Turn to Page Nine)

Thousands of Retail Stores Soon To Be Relieved of Use of Detailed Charts

Washington, May 15—(AP)—Thousands of small retail stores, including hardware dealers, will probably be relieved soon—perhaps today—of price control regulations requiring use of detailed charts.

An Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) official said final details of such a regulation are now being worked out. Many small retailers, and especially hardware dealers, have complained that the chart-keeping methods of the retailers' margin-type pricing regulation worked considerable hardships. They said they did not have the staffs to make up the charts and follow the detailed formulas of the order in pricing their numerous articles.

OPS officials indicated a new order tailored for small retailers would be issued well before the retailers' regulation goes into effect May 30. The retailers' order listed many items of consumer durable goods which are sold in large and small stores and in certain departments of hardware stores.

These include housewares, floor coverings, lawn furniture, sporting goods, galvanized ware and cooking utensils. Other articles include wearing apparel, clothing, musical instruments and television and radio sets.

Under the expected new regulation, an official said, small retailers whose gross business does not exceed $100,000 a year will probably be exempted. They also would be exempt if the business they do in the items named in the retail regulation does not exceed $60,000 a year.

Such an order would not free small retailers from price control. They would use prices of the general freeze base period—last Dec. 19-Jan. 25. The upcoming order is also understood to contain alternative pricing methods of simple types.

Bill Would Set Up Water Authority

Harrisburg, May 15—(AP)—Legislation aimed at improving and enlarging Pittsburgh's water supply received approval of the senate state government committee last night.

The bill would set up a six-man western Pennsylvania water supply planning commission to study water sources in the western part of the state and report to the general assembly by Feb. 1, 1953.

Commission members would serve without pay but would be authorized to hire engineers to devise a plan for transporting the unpolluted waters of western Pennsylvania to the Pittsburgh area.

The commission would include three members appointed by the governor, the state health secretary, the chief engineer of the water and power resources board in the department of forests and waters and the chief engineer of the bureau of sanitary engineering in the health department.

Sponsors of the bill are Sen. Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford), Bernard E. McGinnis (D-Allegheny) and Robert D. Fleming (R-Allegheny).

Camp Discussed by Boy Scout Council Executive Board

Plans for Warren Boy Scout Council summer activities were outlined at a meeting of the council's executive board at the Jefferson room of Warren Public Library last night.

Camping Chairman Cal Barwis reported that Spring Creek Troop 23 (Scoutmaster Thomas Felton) has signed up his unit, boosting to 200 the number of Scouts registered for Camp Olmsted this summer. He also said that arrangements for camp insurance coverage had been completed, and that several improvements will be made to the camp property.

Training Chairman Ted Spenser reported 60 per cent of all unit leaders have now qualified as "basically trained" as a result of the council's spring training program.

Activities Chairman Bill Wehner reported that a feature of the annual Scout Camporee this year will be a pageant by Scouts and Explorers depicting the history of Warren county. The Camporee will be held June 8 and 9 at Wilder Field.

Explorer Scouts Jack Johnson and Jack Timm, of Post 12, attended the board meeting to tell of their experiences on a canoe trip from Olean, N. Y., to Warren.

FOREMEN OFFICERS—Newly elected officers of the Warren Foremen's Club were installed last night at a dinner meeting of the group in Tiona Methodist church. Dan Walton (left), general secretary of the Warren YMCA and executive secretary of the club served as installing officer. Those taking office, left to right, were Richard Swanson, treasurer; Donald Anderson, secretary; Wade Barre, vice president; and Carl Jones, president. The dinner was served by the Tiona Ladies Aid. Speaker of the evening was the Rev. A. M. McCormick, of Warren, who spoke on the theme, "Rise Up and Build." Certificates also were presented by Hilmar Roos to members of the club who took part in the recent Management Development Group meetings. (Times-Mirror Photo).

School Board at Youngsville Votes New $5 "Head Tax"

Youngsville school board, in a special meeting held last evening, heard details of a tentative budget for the 1951-52 year, presented by the committee, Mrs. Forest Rapp and Wyllys V. Johnson.

The budget calls for expenditures of $110,798. The same tax millage as last year will be in effect, 25 mills. There will also be the $5 head tax, and a new $5 head tax on all residents of the borough over 21 years of age. The budget is on view at the school where interested persons may go into its details.

The board also elected Charles W. Spencer treasurer for the coming year; and authorized the advertising of bids for the painting of the school building during the summer months.

Activities Planned By Scout Troop 31

Boy Scout Troop 31, of Youngsville EUB church, has a number of plans in the making which are of general interest.

Arrangements have been made to hold a paper pickup during the third week in July. Residents of the borough are requested to save their paper and not turn it in during the Spring clean-up days on Friday and Saturday of this week. If it is not convenient to keep the paper until July, residents of Youngsville may call Lewis Crippen at 23951 and a scout will be sent to take it out of your way.

Plans are also under way to hold a family picnic on Saturday, June 9, at Filder Field after the Council Camporee. A spirited contest is now in progress for the Camporee with awards on a point basis. The Cardinal Patrol has a ten point lead over the Flaming Arrow Patrol, and the Eagle Patrol is in third place.

Points are accumulated weekly. The winning patrol will be treated to an overnight hike free of charge.

Approximately 25 Scouts and two leaders will take part in the Camporee which has a test of scouting skills and experienced camping techniques.

1,000 Tots Benefit By Heart Operation Abetted Through Vivisection Surveys

(Special To The Times-Mirror)

Harrisburg—Emotions ran high today in the Senate offices of Le Roy E. Chapman, as he, Senator Elmer J. Holland and Representative Wilbur H. Hamilton, sponsors of the two animal experimentation pound bills pending before the Legislature awaited the arrival of little Sherry Ann Huber.

The rugged business of politics and legislation was momentarily forgotten as the three gathered in response to a request to visit them for the little seven year old child who successfully underwent the now famed "blue baby" operation which saved her life.

The "blue baby" operation is based upon a new surgical technique perfected by Drs. Alfred Blalock and Helen Taussig of Johns Hopkins University. The condition is caused by failure of the blood to receive a necessary amount of oxygen as it passes through the heart and lungs. Through study with dogs Blalock and Taussig developed a technique enabling doctors to make necessary repairs to the heart and circulatory system that corrects the abnormality. Over 1000 children have had the operation performed with successful results in about eight out of ten cases. Without the operation, the babies, such as Sherry, spend their lives in bed with a minimum of activity with death resulting before the age of twelve.

As Sherry Ann, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Huber, Jr., of New Cumberland, entered the Senator's office accompanied by her mother and younger brother Jimmy, age 4, her eyes glistening with excitement as for the first time she met the people who were responsible for introducing legislation designed to expedite research being carried on to help other little children like herself.

With no need for prompting from her mother, Sherry Ann solemnly shook hands with the assembled legislators. "Thank you very much," she said "Mommy and Daddy and I are glad that you are trying to help give other little girls and boys like me a chance to run and play and go to school." "The doctors told me," she explained, "that I got well because of what they learned with dogs I hope other children that are sick can get well too."

Sherry's mother, smiling gratefully, thanked the legislators and informed them she and her friends were urging everyone they could reach to contact their legislators asking them for passage of the bills which would make otherwise doomed animals available for medical study.

After the short visit, a quick tour of the Senate and House chambers followed for Sherry Ann and Jimmy. As Sherry and her family started down the capitol elevators, the three sponsors agreed as they returned to their duties that "Everything possible will be done to pass this vital legislation."

The pending measures, S. B. 424 and H. B. 1084 empower the Department of Health to allocate unwanted, unclaimed unlicensed impounded animals to research institutions. Further provisions in the measures include provisions for the licensing and inspection of laboratories, and the formulation of rules regulating the use and care of experimental animals in institutions. Such rules include provisions that the animals be properly fed, suitably housed and in tests involving pain, adequate anesthesia shall be used. The measures provide for specific prosecution for failure to comply with the rules set down by the Health Department.

The legislation applies only to those pounds maintained by public funds and does not effect in any way the shelters operated by private organizations in the state.

Millionth A. T. & T. Stockholder

By purchasing seven shares of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company stock, as part of their savings plan, Mr. and Mrs. Brady Denton (above) became the millionth stockholder of that corporation—the first and only business in the United States to achieve such a broad ownership. Here Mr. and Mrs. Denton are shown with their two sons, Johnny, 3, and Brady, Jr., 6, during a visit to their local telephone exchange in Saginaw, Michigan, with Miss Doris Beiser of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, (with headset) explaining how things work.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company today became the first private corporation in the history of the United States to be owned by one million stockholders. This milestone was reached within a few weeks of the 75th anniversary of the invention of the telephone by Alexander Graham Bell.

The millionth stockholder is represented by Mr. and Mrs. Brady Denton of Saginaw, Michigan, who jointly purchased seven shares of stock because they "want their three young boys to have college educations". Denton, 33, is an automobile salesman.

Of the million stockholders, approximately 82,500 are residents of Pennsylvania and they hold a total of about 2,548,000 shares. Millions of dollars from stockholders' investments have been used in Pennsylvania for the construction of new telephone facilities. The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, subsidiary of the A. T. & T. Company, has spent more than $300,000,000 for new construction in the last five years.

The Dentons, who have been life-long residents of Saginaw, are guests this week of A. T. & T. Company in New York. They will be honored tonight (May 15) at a special dinner attended by many New York civic and business leaders. Charles E. Wilson, chief of the Office of Defense Mobilization, will speak.

COMPLETE EMBARGO NEEDED

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York State, is urging a complete embargo by all free nations against Communist China.

The governor says he doesn't mean "an embargo just of rubber or steel or military equipment," but "a total embargo against shipment of any goods or trading whatsoever with Red China." DeWitt MacKenzie, Associated Press foreign affairs analyst, says many observers seem to agree with that viewpoint, although admitting the difficulties of getting concerted action for such a move.

The United States already has before the United Nations a proposal for a world-wide embargo against shipping arms, ammunition or war materiel to Red China and North Korea. And there are strong indications that our principal Allies—Britain and France—will support this proposition.

However, at this juncture there would be small hope of obtaining the passage of restriction on every form of trade. This means that, even with an embargo on war materiel, there will be a continuation of trade in other lines, all of which in one way or another strengthen the war potential of our enemies.

Both World Wars provided concrete illustrations of what stoppage of supplies can mean to a nation. Twice Germany came within an ace of knocking out England and winning the conflicts through cutting Britain off from supplies by submarine blockade. An embargo on shipments is in effect a blockade.

Of course the inauguration of an all-out embargo against enemy states is easier said than achieved in view of the diversity of interests among the many U. N. Nations concerned. Necessity, fear and cupidity all are involved.

However, an air-tight embargo by the major democracies would go far toward solving the difficulty. They are the ones with the greatest resources.

EFFECT OF MAC ARTHUR

(Wall Street Journal)

Gen. MacArthur convinced most of the senators who heard his testimony that his recall was not necessary. He carried out fully all military orders; no one claims otherwise. He expressed publicly differences with political and diplomatic policy.

But there is very good reason to believe that if Gen. MacArthur had been fully informed as to the background and the reasons for decisions, if he had been told of the difficulties under which President Truman was operating, particularly those difficulties raised by the doubts of European nations, Gen. MacArthur would have gone along and probably could have assisted the president. As it was, he operated under orders the reasons for which he had only a vague notion.

The other impression that Gen. MacArthur left was that of a man of unusual mental and physical qualifications.

For three days he sat continuously from mid-morning until evening answering all the questions thrown at him. At no time was he at a loss for an answer and the answer was always clothed in precise language. Never was he led into an inadvertent statement.

If all the questions asked of Gen. MacArthur had been given to him two weeks in advance of the hearings so that he could have prepared his answers, the answers could have been no more precise than they were.

Only a well organized mental machine is capable of doing what Gen. MacArthur did and his precision of language stems from ability to think precisely. He asked for no recess of the long hearings and at their end the interrogators were more tired than Gen. MacArthur.

For the present the Administration will not make any important change in its policy in Korea; that is, it will continue to try to fight a "limited war."

As to the future, the prospects are different.

If the stalemate in Korea continues, or if the United Nations forces suffer reverses, the Administration will be under pressure to adopt Gen. MacArthur's advice.

News of the unexpected passing of Mrs. Ruth Wade, wife of Hon. Allison D. Wade, at the family home during the early morning hours, was learned with profound sorrow by a wide circle of friends not only in Warren but throughout the state. Our sincere condolences are extended to the judge and other surviving relatives.

UN Policies Get a Going Over As M'Arthur Debate Rolls On

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Questions about the United Nations—its possible strength and its apparent weaknesses—are emerging as principal side issues to controversy over the MacArthur firing.

General MacArthur's main complaint seems to be that his operations in Korea were hampered by United Nations policies, relayed to him through directives from the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

At one point in his testimony, General MacArthur recommended that the United States "go it alone," if necessary, in a more aggressive war against the North Korean and Chinese Communists. By this he meant carrying on the war without United Nations help.

Secretary of Defense George Marshall in his opening testimony revealed how the United Nations had blocked certain U. S. proposals for carrying on the Korean war. One he mentioned specifically was a proposal for "hot pursuit." It would have allowed U. S. air forces to chase Red aircraft across the Yalu river to their bases in Manchuria. Representatives of the 13 nations associated with the U. S. in the Korean war voted unanimously against any such policy. Apparently they felt it would only enlarge the war, bringing the Red China and Russian air forces into the war in greater strength.

"So," said General Marshall, "we had to drop that."

FACED with growing casualty lists and increased costs and inconveniences from the Korean war, there is a growing tendency in the United States to blame the United Nations for getting us into this mess. There is also a growing tendency to blame the United Nations for not doing more to get us out of said mess, or preventing the United States from bringing it to a speedier conclusion.

Many instances can be cited: allowing Red China's delegates to come to Lake Success and testify against what they called "U. S. aggression" in Korea; India's determined opposition to declaring Red China an aggressor; recent disclosures on shipment of war materials to Red China by British Commonwealth countries; reluctance to impose blockade and economic sanctions against Red China.

Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio voiced this sentiment in his speech to the recent U. S. Chamber of Commerce meeting in Washington, and got applauded for it:

"The United Nations was a weak reed on which to rely," said Senator Taft. He went on to say that he would be in favor of continuing the United Nations as a diplomatic body to discuss questions and perhaps work out peace.

"But as a means of stopping aggression, which was the main purpose of the United Nations Charter, it has proved a complete failure. . . . When the Chinese attacked we found ourselves in a second war, in a second aggression, and on that the United Nations refused to take action," Senator Taft concluded.

IN the face of it, therefore, it is somewhat surprising to find a Gallup poll reporting 49 per cent of all persons interviewed favoring "one world government" which should have control over the armed forces of all nations. Of those better informed on the subject, 53 per cent said the United Nations should be made that world government. Thirty-seven per cent said leave the UN as it is. The other 10 per cent were undecided.

This would indicate that, despite criticisms, there is strong support still for the United Nations idea.

General Marshall expressed the hopes of the UN supporters when he commented on General MacArthur's "go it alone" philosophy.

"General MacArthur . . . would have us accept the risk of involvement not only in an extension of the war with Red China, but in an all-out war with the Soviet Union. He would have us do this even at the expense of losing our allies and wrecking the coalition of free peoples throughout the world," said Secretary Marshall.

Children's Aid Society Names Board, Receives Reports at Annual Meeting

At the annual corporation meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Warren County, reports of the past year's accomplishments were given and the following directors were elected:

Mrs. W. H. Cowden and Dr. H. A. Rindard, to third term; Mrs. R. C. Schorman, Anne DeFrees, D. H. Mowell and L. L. Johnson, second year terms; Mrs. P. T. Harrington, first term.

The resignation of Mrs. H. O. Walker was accepted with sincere regret, since she has done excellent work with the organization and her efforts will be missed in its program.

Directors, in their annual business session, elected the following as officers: Mrs. E. D. Hubbs, re-elected president; Anne DeFrees, first vice president; Mrs. C. A. Strickson, second vice president; Mrs. S. L. Myer, secretary; D. H. Mowell, treasurer.

Ten members were on hand to hear the annual report of the treasurer, auditor, and secretary, Claire Elliott, executive director, showed in her report that excellent progress has been made during the year. There has been an increase in services rendered and the interest shown by the general public has been very encouraging.

It was announced the Children's Aid Society of Western Pennsylvania will hold its 66th annual meeting in Warren on Tuesday, June 5, with a 12:30 luncheon at the Woman's Club. The speaker will be Dr. Robert Shoemaker, associate psychiatrist of the Staunton Clinic, University of Pittsburgh.

The next event on the CAS calendar will be the start of the annual membership campaign on May 21st.

In her report, Mrs. Hubbs called attention to the fact this month concludes the 61st year of service for the organization. In it, the adoptive program has made progress; a great deal more work is being done with unmarried mothers, and it is hoped to build the program still further in the year ahead. She pointed out that one important accomplishment has been the licensing of a study home, which insures a permanent source of care for babies and children who need to be placed temporarily, from time to time, or for children who need specialized care. Mrs. Hubbs spoke of the wonderful work being accomplished through the clinic, and termed "very reassuring" the affection and interest shown by foster mothers toward their charges.

Leichtenberger, Sheffield RD 2, has been graduated from the basic airborne course of the Fort Benning, Ga., Infantry School as a qualified parachutist. Students are required to make five jumps from a plane, including one day jump with full equipment.

Concluding, the president expressed her personal thanks to Miss Elliott and Mrs. Eva Pasinger, of the CAS staff; to Dr. Paul Fago, for his help with the clinic; and to all the members for their continued support. She expressed regret at the resignation of the two board members, Mrs. Walker and Mrs. J. L. Blair, and welcomed two new ones, Mrs. Harrington and Mrs. W. F. Crosssett.

Miss Elliott, in her annual report, reviewed the very beginnings of the organization before taking up present day activities. She spoke of the boarding home program, the new study home, adoption service, the health record, service to unmarried mothers, speech correction work, psychology tests, placement of children in institutions, and service to children in their own homes. Further reference to her report will be made in conjunction with the membership campaign soon to be staged.

Pine Grove School Board Has Meeting

Russell, May 11—President Jerold Angove conducted the May meeting of Pine Grove township school board, held at the local school, when the proposed budget of $63,087 was adopted, and insurance was increased $13,500 to make coverage 80% of the school property valuation. The tax rate as adopted is 30 mills on real estate, with an additional $5 per capita, and $5 paid annually by each person over 21 toward support of the school district.

N. D. Paterson, Warren, was elected treasurer of the board. The returned tax list was $1,773.20; returned property taxes, including lower valuation and double assessment, $171.68, and exonerations, $770.

Gilbert Pearson, who left Wednesday for induction into the armed services, was honored at a farewell party Monday evening given by members, wives and husbands of the church choir at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hale. Games were enjoyed and Mrs. Floyd Lindquist, choir leader, in behalf of the members, presented Mr. Pearson with a gift. Refreshments concluding the party were served from a table done with a red rose centerpiece.

HOMEMAKER'S GUIDE TO BEEF CUTS

PRIME (WHOLESALE) BEEF CUTS AND THE RETAIL CUTS MADE FROM EACH

Mrs. America. This chart shows you by name and shape each of the standard cuts of beef made to be sold at retail from the wholesale cuts in the center of the chart. Each of these beef cuts is subject to dollar-and-cents price ceilings at your retail meat shop. Your retailer has been provided with the dollar-and-cents ceiling prices for the pricing zone in which you live. You can ask to see these prices. Effective May 14 ceiling prices must be posted by your butcher. Lower beef prices will be effective on August 1 and another reduction will be effective on October 1.

New dollars-and-cents ceiling prices on beef cuts went into effect this week.

Victor E. Moore, Regional Director of the Office of Price Stabilization for Pennsylvania and Delaware, said retailers have until June 4 to post the new prices but must have the ceilings in effect now.

The prices will be in effect until July 31, when OPS will put in effect the first of two major price reductions, the second coming October 1.

These successive cuts will mean a total saving of 10 percent to the housewife, or an estimated $700,000,000 a year to the American consumer.

There will be little immediate price change, Moore said, because the new ceilings are at about the February level.

Under the OPS beef regulations prices of live cattle will be reduced about 10 percent on May 20, 4½ percent more on July 29, and another 4½ percent September 30.

The new beef ceilings differ from zone to zone, principally because of transportation costs. Retailers may obtain copies showing maximum charges for each cut from their nearest OPS office, Moore said, or from banks, chambers of commerce or trade associations which have been supplied with them.

Try Special Technique to Sow Flower Seed in Garden

Mix Seed With Sand, and Scatter Over Area as Evenly as Possible.

When flower seeds are sown directly in the garden it will pay to take special precautions to identify the place where they were sown, and make sure that when they sprout the tiny seedlings can find their way to the surface and be recognized when they emerge.

All annual flower seeds may be sown directly in the garden, and there are a number which should be, because they are difficult to transplant. These include alyssum, California poppy, godetia, kochia, leptosyne, linaria, lupin, matthiola (evening scented stock), nasturtium, dwarf phlox, poppies, portulaca and salpiglossis.

Much the same technique should be used as in sowing in a seed box, particularly as to shallow planting, and covering the seeds with porous soil. Identification of the seeds, and of their location, are also important, since with slow germinators it is easy to forget exactly where they were sown. Care will be well repaid. Seeds are subject to many hazards which human skill cannot wholly avoid, but the careful operator may count upon a high average of success.

Prepare a smooth seed bed, loosening the soil to a depth of six inches. Work into it 4 pounds of plant food for each 100 square feet. Then outline with a string the area to be covered with each variety. Mix the seed with sand to help scatter it over the space as evenly as possible. Then sift a light covering of porous soil over the seed and firm it lightly.

Now, until the seeds sprout the soil must be kept moist; and this requires daily sprinkling with a fine spray, taking care not to wash the seeds out of the soil.

This Season's Spring Concert Will Be 14th Annual of the High School Choir

On Thursday evening in the Beaty Junior High School gym, the Warren High School A Cappella Choir will be giving its 14th annual spring concert. This phase of choral work was started in 1937, with the aim of developing young voices for church choirs and other community organizations, and has grown into an outstanding project.

When the first concert was given, choir members did not have robes and risers were not used. By the following spring, risers had been secured, and the next fall, robes were purchased. When the a cappella choir bought new robes at the beginning of the present school year, these first robes became the property of the second choir.

Concerts were given under the direction of Carroll A. Fowler from 1937 to 1943, when he left to teach in Ohio. During the five years, he was away from Warren, the a cappella group was directed by Miss Twila Hoover, who continued the concert program.

Returning, Mr. Fowler has built the group into one of the finest in this section and a capacity house is assured Thursday night when the 49 students comprising this year's choir present a varied program that will range from popular numbers to serious choral church music.

Opening the concert, the choir will give Tschakowsky's familiar "Nutcracker Suite" in the choral arrangement done by Harry Simeone of the Fred Waring organization. Year after year orchestrates the world over, by making this suite a standard part of their repertoires, have attested to its universal charm and inherent greatness, and the melodic choral arrangement has become one of the most frequently requested numbers on the Waring radio program.

Waring has been credited with having enriched with lyrics Tschakowsky's fanciful ballet. Five sections of the original "Nutcracker Suite" make up the song version, with the lively "Overture" preceding four songs from fairyland. The first is the sprightly "Dance of the Sugar Plum". Then comes the brilliant, exciting dance, "Tropak", followed by the gay and colorful "Dance of the Toy Flutes". The final scene depicts a troupe of flowers, magnolias, lilies, daffodils, and violets, in a merry, swirling "Waltz of the Flowers".

ALTAR SOCIETY

Members of St. Joseph's Altar Society will hold a tureen supper in the clubrooms at 6:30 p. m. Thursday, each one to bring a tureen, her own table service and rolls. Mrs. E. J. Martin, chairman, with her committee, will serve dessert. Plans will also include a social time later in the evening. Each member is cordially invited.

SENECA PTA TUREEN

The May meeting of Seneca PTA will get under way with a tureen dinner at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday and a special invitation is extended to fathers to be in attendance. Each one attending is asked to bring a tureen, rolls and table service, the committee to provide meat and coffee.

STUDENT RECITAL

Pupils heard in the regular recital at Warren Conservatory of Music were Penelope Gigliotti, Ann Fuelhart, Carol Bailey, Thomas Nasman, Cortland Carlson, Marilyn Foillett, Paul Mahaffy, Suzanne Swanson, Johnny Fill, Peggy Schuelz, Sharon Anderson and Ann Conti.

Y-Teens Entertain Mothers and Guests At Annual Spring Banquet-Installation

Carrying out a spring theme of birds and flowers, the Y-Teen department of the YWCA entertained 250 persons in the activities building last evening for the annual mother and daughter banquet.

Tables were decorated with candles and flowers, gay bird lapel pins for all mothers and guests, and colorful programs. Pink and blue streamers decorated the sides of the gym and bird cutouts brightened the walls.

Mrs. James Bailey, chairman of the Y-Teen committee, was toastmaster for the program which included an invocation by Carroll Kotmair; toast to the mothers, Barbara Lundahl and toast to the daughters by Mrs. Donald Taft. The Y-Teen Choir, under the direction of Miss Viola Landmark and Mrs. Carl Whipple, sang two numbers. The songs were "Beautiful Dreamer" by Foster and "Over the Rainbow" with soloists Patti Larsen and Dianne Lord. This was followed by a piano solo by Becky Munn. Mrs. Bailey then introduced the advisers and program director to the group. The next number on the program was a piano solo by Patty Harrington.

Beaty Y-Teen officers were installed and the highlight of the evening followed, installation of the newly-elected officers of the Y-Teen Girls' Club. The new officers were kept a strict secret until the moment they were to be installed. At this time the returning officers located the new officers in the audience, presented them with a rose, and outlined their duties and responsibilities for the coming year.

New officers are: president, Sally Reed with Barbara Lundahl returning; vice president, Dorothy McGarry with Carroll Kotmair retiring; secretary, Sally Tome with Beverly Chapman retiring; treasurer, Frances Gruttaria with June Odmark retiring and Drag-Inn manager, Roseann Germonito with Ellen Henderson retiring.

The final event of the evening was a style show by the Charming Class directed by Dee Newmaker, Ann Spiedel and Evelyn Dahler. The script was written and read by Beverly Taft and Barbara Bleed, music for the models was played by Mrs. Carl Whipple. Girls modeling clothes were Dolly Fino, Nula Cherons, Roberta Leave, Frances Spatafore, Marilyn Smith, Carol Powley, Pat Patrick, Cecilia Molnar, Karen Kinney and Ellen Henderson. The girls wish to thank Betty Lee for their pretty clothes and Metzger-Wrights for use of the lawn furniture as a setting for the style show.

The next big event for Warren Y-Teens will be camp at Newatash on Lake Chautauqua. Dates for this year's camp are June 10-17, with registration for camp to take place Friday, May 18, at the YWCA from 3 to 5 p. m. The registration fee is $1.50, the balance of $12.00 being due some time before the girls leave for camp.

MARCONI BRIDGE

Two pairs tied for first place in last night's weekly tournament of the Marconi Bridge Club: Mr. and Mrs. Hans Von Essen, Jamestown, N. Y., and Harry Kopf playing with Henry Hunzinger. In second place were Mr. and Mrs. James Potter; third, Mrs. M. A. Kornreich and Mrs. J. A. Bevevino. Two events are scheduled for the bridge enthusiasts over the coming weekend. The first will be the N.Y. Penn Unit game at two o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Marconi Outing Club; the second, a "new partner" game in the downtown social rooms Monday evening.

Ten members of the local High School Girls Club are planning to join girls from Erie and Westfield to go to New York City June 24-30. The jaunt has been arranged by Y-Teen directors of the three cities and a bus will be chartered for the transportation. Hotel reservations have been made and all other arrangements are to be made in advance. Highlights for the week will include a boat trip around Manhattan Island; a trip to Central Park; another to Chinatown; television and radio shows; a show at Radio City; a play, "Kiss Me Kate"; baseball game; a visit to the museum; shopping and sight-seeing tours. The girls will be guests of the Brooklyn Y-Teens during one afternoon of the visit in the big city.

An Orchid for "Harvey"

Warren Players Club made a very wise choice in selecting the fanciful "Harvey" for its closing performance from her any time.

Also one of the most talented of Player's members, Hank Walker didn't start his career with the club as early as some of the others but he topped an impressive list of successful roles with his interpretation of Elwood P. Dowd.

We could go on and on, with superlatives for each of the cast, Monty McClure, George Cunningham, Evelyn Donnelly, Dorothy Irvine, Paul Myers, "Sue Smith, Tessie Fino, Harry Young and Francis Morris, but space does not permit. Regardless of the length of the role, each was given his moment in the play and without exception, made the most of it.

Jo Dickinson deserves an extra bouquet for her acceptance of the director's task, an assignment that definitely added laurels to her acting and coaching career. Not to be forgotten, either, are the many who worked out one of the most difficult staging jobs a Players' production staff has ever placed in its hands.

Lalla Steber, if she'll pardon the expression, is one of the older members of Players Club and that fact, from the standpoint of both years and experience, allowed her to bring to the part of Veta, a most convincing reading. We're prejudiced from long years

BETHEL CHURCH HAS UNUSUALLY FINE ARTIST

The people of Bethel Evangelical United Brethren church are happy to welcome the people of Warren to hear Russell H. Ford, associate pastor of Cadle Tabernacle in Indianapolis, Ind., who has sung over WLW, Cincinnati, for several years. The people of Bethel church feel very fortunate in being able to secure this talented artist for these services, as he is one of the finest chalk artists in the country, portraying his message through the picture in a beautiful blending of colors. He sings in a tenor voice of exceptional quality as he draws.

In the service Monday evening, Rev. Ford drew a striking picture of a sunset with a little white church as a central theme, while he sang "Beyond the Sunset", "God's Tomorrow" and "The Church By the Side of the Road".

Rev. Ford has studied under several artists as well as attending the Dayton Art School in Dayton. His work is not alone with chalk, but he has several oil paintings which will be used in a later service in the week. This affords the people of Warren a rare opportunity to see and hear this artist of exceptional ability. The public is cordially invited to these services at 7:45 each evening.

Constance Huber Becomes the Bride Of James Reynolds

Sheffield, May 15—A double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Hans Pearson at 3 p. m. Sunday in Bethany Lutheran church in the presence of the immediate families, united in marriage Miss Constance Huber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Huber, Horton avenue, and James Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Reynolds, Erie.

Vases of pink and white snapdragons provided the altar setting and a prelude of bridal music, along with the traditional wedding march, was played at the organ by Mrs. Raymond Davidson.

The petite and attractive bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white nylon marquisette over satin, styled with high round neckline and cap sleeves. Her shoulder length veil descended from a crown and she carried a prayer book topped with white carnations and streamers. She wore a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

Carolyn Hanson, the bride's only attendant, wore an identical gown in blue, and had a corsage of pink carnations.

Donald Duckett, Warren, served as best man.

The mother of the bride chose an aqua colored dress, with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations, for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Reynolds, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy suit, yellow accessories and yellow carnations.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, with Mrs. J. Harry Hanson assisting. The table was centered with pink and white snapdragons and a two-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Later the couple left on a week's wedding trip to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, N. Y., and into Canada. For her traveling ensemble the bride chose a pink suit, navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride is employed by the Sylvania Electric Company. She will reside with her parents until her husband's discharge from the U. S. Navy. His ship, the USS Missouri, is docked at Norfolk, Va.

Scott and Wilson Wedding May 5th In Valencia Church

The United Presbyterian church at Valencia was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday, May 5, when Mary Catherine Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wilson, Valencia, became the bride of Russell Merle Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Scott, North Warren.

A double ring ceremony at 7:30 o'clock was read by the Rev. J. Earl Hughes, Evans City United Presbyterian church, who also officiated at the wedding of the bride's parents 25 years ago. Wedding music was by the bride's uncle, Paul Ritchey, Valencia, and DuWayne Baird, Butler vocalist.

Wearing Chantilly lace and satin and carrying a cascade arrangement of calla lilies, the bride was given in marriage by her father and attended by Ruth Reif, West View, as maid of honor.

Clinton R. Scott served his brother as best man, with James D. Wilson and Frank H. Farrell as ushers.

The reception followed in the Nursery Tea Room on the Pittsburgh road. After an extended southern honeymoon, the couple will reside in Sunset Court, North Warren.

A graduate of the Allegheny General Hospital School of Nursing and employee in the operating room at that hospital since last September, the bride has accepted a position in Warren State Hospital.

After serving three years in the United States Navy, Mr. Scott is employed by the Mobil Oil Company.

Your Actions Today Become Child's Memories Tomorrow

If you are the mother of young children, right now you are creating the memories your future grownup children will have of you and of their childhood.

How will they remember you? That is a question mothers should ask themselves once in a while, for it is a real eye-opener.

Will they remember you as soft spoken, understanding, able to reduce small emergencies to their real size, quick to laugh, impossible to budge in matters of right and wrong?

Or will they remember you as rushed and distracted, naggingly critical, easily upset over trifles, quicker to frown than to smile, easily teased into saying "yes" when even a child could see that "no" was what you believed was right?

Each day is so crowded for a busy mother that unless she occasionally makes herself take a long-range look at herself as a mother, she can fall into some pretty bad habits.

STOP AND THINK

BUT if she stops now and then to realize that how she acts today is how her children will remember her, then she can separate the important from the unimportant. She can see trifles for what they are—and important issues for what they are.

And once she can do that she will be a good mother, instead of the kind of mother who raises as much fuss over a glass of accidentally spilled milk as over a deliberate lie, or something else as fundamentally important.

Look at the kind of mother you were today—and see if that is the kind of mother you want your children to remember. If it is, you are doing fine. If not, you can do a better job tomorrow.

COPENHAGEN—(NEA)—Esperger is a little fishing town about 20 miles from Copenhagen on the sound between Denmark and Sweden. We paused there on a chilly morning for hot coffee and amazing pastries—chocolate suspended in buttery tenderness stuffed to exploding with whipped cream. Then we drove further along the sound across rich farm country. As the sky began to fade we reached Fredenborg (Palace of Peace), the summer residence of the Danish royal family.

But you can't eat castles! A stone's throw from the summer palace lies a handsome inn called Store Kro, with open fireplaces and tables covered with cloths of Copenhagen blue. There, A. Hogsbro Holm, secretary-general of the Danish Agricultural Council, gave us a regal party—a Danish cold table.

The doors of the great dining hall were swung open and two stalwart Danes led the way in, blowing long curving lurs—ancient horns dating back to the bronze age. They are used now only on exclusive occasions and as a symbol of quality. A lur brand is by law placed on all cheese, butter and bacon exported.

Down the center of the hall stretched a wide table brilliant with fresh flowers and weighted with Danish hams, tongues, roasts of beef and lamb, veal loaves, ducks and chickens, great trays of Danish salami, smoky and smooth, mounds of their pork liver paste served in wedges and eaten on bread. I counted 20 different kinds of meat and fowl and meat and vegetable salads set before us.

controversial income levy. Eleven others rebelled and their recalcitrance was enough to force return of the measure to committee.

The administration needed 26 votes to put the bill across on the senate floor in the face of solid opposition. From the 20-vote Democratic minority.

Sen. James S. Berger (R-Potter), Republican caucus chairman, gave the first tipoff that the income tax measure could be considered a dead issue.

He said the bill was recommended "for further study," a legislative term commonly used to signify eventual death of legislation.

The income tax bill was accompanied by constant strife since its introduction in the house more than a month ago. The house first defeated it but then revived it through a parliamentary maneuver. On the second try, it passed by a close margin.

The measure, designed to raise $119,000,000 in the next two years, was approved by the senate finance committee last week by a narrow 9-7 vote with two Republicans opposing it.

The two-hour GOP senate caucus yesterday saw the opposition led by a hard core of four Republican senators who first came out against the measure while it was clearing the house.

The governor, however, declined comment on the new development. He cancelled appointments for the rest of the day as soon as word reached him of the senate caucus action.

The administration's fight in the GOP caucus was led by Sens. M.

BEST BID'S NO GOOD IF YOU PLAY BADLY

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

Even the best bidding will merely get you to a good contract. There is still the problem of playing the hand to best advantage.

In the hand shown today, North's response of two clubs was the Stayman Convention, asking South to show a four-card major if possible. Since South did not have a four-card major, he had to show the size of his no-trump.

South actually held a maximum no-trump. That is, he held noticeably more than the minimum strength for an opening bid of one no-trump. Hence South made a rebid of two no-trump to show his maximum. He would have bid two diamonds (instead of two no-trump) if he had held a minimum no-trump.

North took a bit of a flyer when he jumped to six no-trump. He was gambling that the opponents could not immediately cash two winners and that the long clubs would prove decisive. It was not an unreasonable contract since it actually depended only on a successful heart finesse.

West opened the eight of clubs and declarer won in the dummy in order to lead a spade at once. He put up the king of spades from his hand, and West made the brilliant, deceptive play of holding off. Needless to say, West played his low spade without any telltale hesitation.

If West had taken the ace of spades, South would have been forced to try the heart finesse as his only chance to make the slam. When West played a low spade, however, South thought that the Business Meeting Held at Library

The May meeting of the Warren Public Library Board of Control was held Monday evening in the Pennsylvania Room of the library in charge of Wallace Cowden, president. Routine reports were read and accepted.

The board decided to continue the custom of closing the library at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon, beginning June 14 and resuming the regular full-time schedule with the beginning of the school year in September.

It was announced that a new Memorial picture, Dom Manuel by Goya, has been hung in the gallery and that brass identification plates have been received for all the pictures. The librarian, Mrs. Jean Lopez, reported also, that the prize winning pictures of the Woman's Club Art Show would be on exhibit in the Wetmore Gallery for several days after the show, as has been the custom for several years.

The campaign for Friends of the Library and Warren Library Association memberships was discussed. It was stated that, because of illness, there had not been enough staff members to start the mailing of publicity soon as had been expected. However, 13 Friends of the Library memberships had been received at the beginning of the campaign as well as nine new Warren Library Association memberships, which were presented and accepted by the board of control.

After discussion of proposed building repair work and other business matters, the meeting was adjourned.

As did the other witness—MacArthur—Bradley testified behind closed doors.

A stenographic report of the testimony is sent to news reporters. First, it goes through the hands of military and state department censors who cut out any information they believe would damage the national interest if made public.

THE MARKETS

New York, May 15—(AP)—The stock market topped a little lower today on balance with a considerable number of leaders trading unchanged. The spread of prices was a little more than a dollar on the downside and just about a dollar on the upside. Rock Island was outside this range with a loss of 2 1/2 at 56 1/2 established on opening block of 1,000 shares. Directors declared a dividend of 75 cents on common, the same as previously paid, and there may have been some trader disappointment over the decision.

STORE HAVING ANNIVERSARY—Metzger-Wright's, Warren's oldest department store which will celebrate its 55th Anniversary starting Thursday of this week. Founded in 1896 by C. E. Metzger, this 55 year old store has become the leading department store in Northwestern Pennsylvania.

C. E. Metzger, A. Silberberg, and A. Smart founded the department store on the site where the Kresge building now stands. Many can remember the excitement of that time when people came from miles around in their carriages to see this new store and tie their horses to the hitching posts in front. In 1901, Mr. Smart and Mr. Silberberg left the partnership and Mr. Metzger was joined by William Hogan. For many years the store was known as Metzger and Hogan and flourished in the fast growing town.

After Mr. Hogan left the firm, Mr. Metzger carried on alone until 1917 when he was joined by W. W. Wright and the store's name was changed to Metzger-Wright Company. In 1919 it merged with the C. H. Smith Company and was known as Smith, Metzger-Wright Company. In 1923 the Smith holdings were bought out and the name again became Metzger-Wright's. In March 1948, it was purchased by the Allied Stores Corporation of New York, owners of many of the largest department stores in the country.

Lottsville Mill Owner Honored On His 83rd Birthday

E. A. Baker, a lifetime resident of Lottsville, celebrated his 83rd birthday anniversary Saturday in connection with the open house held at the plant of the Lottsville Milling Company, which he still operates.

There were between 150 and 200 persons visiting the plant in the afternoon, when demonstrations were given in the mixing of dairy and poultry rations. In addition, a colored motion picture prepared by the Clymer Bag Company, Clymer, N. Y., showed how to properly care for and recondition used cotton and burlap bags.

A rather unusual innovation in connection with Mr. Baker's birthday was attendance at a noon luncheon of several representatives from feed company suppliers who have called on him at his feed mill over the past years. A few of them remembered him when he built his present plant in 1908.

The noon luncheon was prepared by ladies of the Lottsville Methodist church and was much enjoyed by the group. Coffee and a piece of birthday cake were served at the mill during the afternoon open house. There were also colored balloons for the children.

Those who attended the luncheon, and the companies they represented, were as follows:

The SIREN of SILVER VALLEY

By PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Chapter 19

They had an early breakfast and got under way at once. Jeff strung his men clear across the valley and they hazed the cattle before them, bunching them as they rode. What Double D animals they encountered were permitted to drop back. The herd grew as they advanced and the air was filled with their complaints and the dust stirred by their moving feet.

It was slow, hot work and both horses and men were taxed to the utmost; but midafternoon found them at the bend in the creek less than a mile from the Star buildings. Ahead of them the hills extended into the valley like huge, stubby fingers, and between each pair of fingers was a narrow valley extending back into the fastness of the mountains.

Jeff, watching through the glasses, could see the Star riders saddling up on their hillside ranch yard and knew that their passage was going to be disputed. He called "Tombstone to him. Ride along the line and tell the boys to get all set to start a stampede when I fire a signal shot. We've got to beat the Star to it, for they're going to try to turn them back on us sure as shooting. Slickers, quirts, guns—anything to get them started. And keep after them. They're tired and they'll be hard to get going."

Tombstone rode away and Jeff continued to watch. He saw a bronze-haired girl moving swiftly about on her pony, giving instructions, speeding up her men and probably inspiring them with her words. He saw them bunch, then come sweeping out of the yard at a run, heading down the slope towards the approaching cattle.

He raised his Colt and fired a single shot into the air. Instantly bedlam broke loose. Guns flamed, shouts rose in a fierce crescendo, the whole line of men spurred their horses at the spooky cattle. Quirts cracked and slickers waved. The frightened animals in the rear began crowding those in front of them, heads reared and horns waving. Their fright was communicated to the ones farther ahead; in turn they broke into a shambling run, closing the distance between them and the leaders. And at last the front ranks were pushed into a run that gained speed and momentum as the pressure from behind increased. And then the whole herd broke into frantic flight.

Looking over the bobbing backs, Jeff got the impression of an ugly, unrelenting brown tide sweeping relentlessly forward. He saw the Star riders pull up their horses and wheel them, saw them scamper back to safety leaving a bronze-haired girl calling frantically for them to come back. He saw the first wave of steers surge by very close to her, saw her horse rear and plunge and fight for his head.

And at last, with a fierce gesture of despair, Ruth wheeled the pony and sent him racing after the rest into the sanctuary of the Star yard.

They were beaten; hopelessly and completely beaten. The cattle surged towards the blunt fingers of the hills, split into streams to flow around them and into the passages between. Jeff's men followed them clear to the entrances, then swung away and came galloping to rally about him. He led them straight for the Star buildings, planning to strike before the Star crew could reorganize.

Scattered rifle fire met them as they charged up the slope, but it could not stop them, and once at close quarters their superior numbers told. The extra men John Starr had hired were first to throw down their weapons and put their hands into the air; deprived of their support, the rest retreated into the ranch house and prepared to defend it. But they were few. Swiftly Jeff placed his men behind the bunkhouse and the mess shack and harness shed and stable. The house was quickly surrounded and the men who had surrendered were hurried down the slope and out of range, on foot and guarded by Tombstone and several men. Once the defenders were definitely penned in the house, Jeff dispatched riders to watch the passages into the hills and prevent the return of cattle.

The siege of the fortress which was the Star ranch house had begun. Victory for the Double D was now assured.

The chuck wagon had followed them up the valley and the cook again prepared a big supper. Jeff fed his men in shifts, gave the Star deserters a good meal and offered to set them free and pay them a month's wages if they promised to leave that part of the country and take no further part in the war. It was a generous offer and they accepted it gratefully. He gave them their horses and weapons and paid them from the money he had saved to start his own ranch, intending to collect it later from Diana. John Starr's force was now reduced to its original number of ten, several of whom had been wounded.

The night passed uneventfully and shortly after breakfast the next morning Ruth Starr came out of the ranch house. She was bareheaded and her bronze curls shone in the early sunlight. She stood erect and defiant on the gallery and said, "I want to talk to Jeff Rayne."

Jeff came from his place of concealment, and she watched his approach with stony face. When he had reached the foot of the low steps he halted and took off his hat. She said, "We can't stay in the house indefinitely. We must look after our stock and save what we can. What are your terms?"

"Your people burned the Double D buildings, so Mrs. Denton must have yours in return. You are also responsible for the murder of her husband, so you must leave the valley."

He saw the hazel eyes flame and the color rise in her cheeks. "I told you we didn't kill Dan Denton, I told you your cattle were taken by Shag Dolan; now I tell you that the buildings were burned by Shag Dolan on his own responsibility and without consulting us."

"It's rather a coincidence, isn't it? That the buildings were first and we were drawn away just at the right time for you to start your stampede?"

"We'd already planned the stampede." She made a weary gesture. "Oh, it's no use talking to you. You're blind, utterly blind." She paused, catching her lip with her teeth, blinking back the tears. "Dad's wounded and we have several more inside who can't ride. We must have some sort of wagon to get them away."

"We're not thieves," he told her stiffly. "Any stock and equipment on the spread is still yours. And you can take anything you want from the house."

She did not thank him; just turned and went back into the house.

Ed Keever and his men came out, walking stiffly and looking neither to right nor to left. They got horses and a light wagon was made ready. Mattresses were placed in its bed and the wounded laid on them. The able men mounted and sat their saddles waiting. Ruth Starr came out. She had a valise which Jeff supposed contained clothing and she carried a black kitten. She held her head high and her face was deathly white. She put the valise into the wagon then, the kitten still cuddled in her arm, got on her pony and the whole little cavalcade moved slowly from the yard.
